MR. GEHR IN ACCENTS

Pres. of Railroad Threatens Criminal Libel.

"There is going to be a first-class case of criminal libel instituted pretty soon, if certain people who are industriously disseminating malicious lies about myself and my company don't get wise to themselves and quit." Thus spoke H. B. Gehr, president of the Kohala-Hilo Railroad, to a Tribune representative one day this week. Mr. Gehr was evidently in a frame of mind not exactly philanthropic, so far at least as the disseminators of the reports referred to were concerned. "I don't care about these things so far as I am personally concerned, though it is a little disagreeable to be the subject of continuous unfounded and irresponsible rumors, but when these things affect the prospects and the business future of the enterprise I have charge of they must stop or be stopped."

"You have probably heard that I have been asked to retire from the presidency of the company. That is utterly false, and has no shadow even of an excuse for existing. So long ago as I was in New York I heard these reports from the Islands here and knew that letters had been written by people interested in blocking the enterprise. At that time I told my people there that if they thought my resignation would help matters to tell me so frankly, and I would step down so fast it would make an electric current. They entirely ignored the proposition, and at the present time there is no intention or desire on their part for my removal. Within a few weeks letters have been sent from here to these people telling them the road could never go through with me at its head, that there was no confidence in me here, and in fact, only a spirit of opposition, and making statements derogatory to my character and business methods."

"Now this is what I am after with blood in my eye. I know who these people are; one of them at least, is a notorious liar, right here in his own community. The statements made are grossly false and malicious and I will stand it no longer. These people did come to me, if they did I would tell them this personally; as it is, I don't propose to go to them, but I will just give them one warning, this way."—Hilo Tribune.

WAIKIKI INN HOUSE WARMING

After having been in the hands of the carpenters for several weeks, the Waikiki Inn, with additions and furnishings, was given a housewarming by Manager H. A. N. Almy Saturday evening. The affair took the shape of a dance and a dinner, at which the manager had as his personal guests a party of the representatives of the newspapers of the city.

The encroachments of the waves upon the beach had rendered it necessary that the houses be newly under-planned, and while this was being done made which have added wonderfully to the attractiveness of the popular resort. One of the most noticeable of these additions to the hotel is the new board walk. This is 150 feet long, and has been increased to twenty feet in width. This walk has been so laid that when waxed it forms a splendid dancing room, and the quintet club's music has an added accompaniment to the roar of the surf and the wash of the waves.

Another feature which fills a want long felt, is one which has been in contemplation for some time by the enterprising manager. This is the building of a private dining room, 20 x 20 feet, above the center of the walk, where, amid tree tops, a party may dine in perfect privacy, where the incessant murmur of the sea prevents the sound of voices from reaching the ears of those who may be promenading below. The location of this pretty little room, which has been made as cozy as corner seats and a pretty sideboard, bric-a-brac and pictures may make it, is uniquely striking. There is at once the privacy of seclusion and the openness of the free air and the combination of sound and wind of the sea brings appreciation of the good cheer.

The feast spread before his guests by Manager Almy Saturday evening was one worthy of the place. It is one of the peculiarities of the Inn that the cheer is always good, and the guests come prepared to enjoy it, so that there is never a menu card to rob the diner of the pleasure of anticipation. There were such good things as okra soup, broiled mullet, snapper and a fillet, with all the trimmings which every one who has eaten at the Inn appreciates. There were other things which make for conviviality, and the dinner was eaten to the strains of a quintet club, which left just enough intervals for a good story or two from the host. The dancing was kept up until a late hour, the attendance being comfortably large. Many officers from the Petrel spent the evening at the Inn, and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyable.
